IDP Education empowers underprivileged women in Chennai

Chennai: With the trend of rural-to-city migration, IDP Education, a leader in education and education advocacy, has come to realization that there is a lack of proper education among underprivileged women, particularly in Chennai. "We need to provide them with opportunities to improve their lives and the society," says S. S. Srinivasan, founder and CEO of IDP Education.

"Education is the key to empowerment. We have implemented various programs to address the needs of these women. Through our various initiatives, we aim to provide them with the skills and knowledge they need to succeed in life."

Presently, 200 women are engaged in 100+ programs across various fields such as literacy, vocational training, and entrepreneurship.

These programs are designed to empower these women to become self-sufficient and financially independent. The organization also provides mentorship and guidance to help them succeed in their goals.

Through its various initiatives, IDP Education is making a significant difference in the lives of these women.

Education is the key to
